About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

I GOT MY COPY of The Trumpet for Jan. 24 the other day and read it with interest. It's the Harrisburg Junior high school publication. The students write their own news stories and do a good job of it.

If you want an example, here is a story headed "Birds Capture a Heart," written by John Stunson and Dale Waite:

"Dr. Bryant (Dr. Joe Bryant of Ridgway), an authority on birds in southern Illinois, gave a talk at Junior high school January 8. He told about the birds of his own back yard in Ridgway. He said he liked to talk to boys and girls of our ages, because we are interested in conserving wild life.

"He said: 'It's hard to teach an old dog new tricks.'

"Dr. Bryant said birds act on intelligence sometimes, not always on instinct. A story about a crippled starling shows they do have intelligence. He found a crippled starling, who was not able to fight for its food. It had come to his back yard to be fed with the smaller birds.

"One freezing winter day the starling disappeared. Dr. Bryant thought the bird had frozen to death along with a lot of other birds. One week later the bird came back with another crippled starling. The first bird had informed the second one that he could get food without fighting for it.

"He told another fascinating story about a wren. It made its nest between a life preserver and an old hunting cap. Every morning the wren scolded Dr. Bryant to let him out of his garage and likewise in the evening to let him in.

" 'Owls and hawks are useful to man and should not be harmed, because they kill many rodents which are destructive to crops,' he said. 'Hay fever victims should not condemn the English Sparrow. They destroy more ragweed seed in one hour than a man can in one day.'

"Dr. Bryant became interested in his hobby while confined to a hospital. Once a man asked him why he went crazy over birds. His reply:

" 'A person who watches birds never has to take sleeping pills'."

And here's an editorial by Belle Turner:

FREEDOM COUNTS

Are we grateful for the freedom we have here in America? Our founding fathers seriously considered the importance of being free when forming a free and lasting nation.

A recent survey of a certain midwestern college found an amazing percent of their students believing we have too much freedom. Fifty three percent were against freedom of religion, without a limitation. Forty one percent were against freedom of speech and the press.

The founders of our Constitution felt that God loves all people who love freedom. They though that God would guide them in forming a free and lasting nation. Trusting God for this guidance they produced a great document, which enables us to be a great free nation.

No ancient tyrant's rule that enslaved and held people in bondage exists today. God sent ten terrible plagues upon the Egyptians when they insisted upon enslaving the Israelites. He parted the waters of the Red Sea and allowed the Israelites to pass through. It was God who destroyed the Egyptians when they attempted to cross the Red Sea. God closed the angry waters and the whole Egyptian army was swallowed up.

In modern times rulers like Hitler and Mussolini have been destroyed by the effort of those who stand for peace and freedom.

Russia has taken over the country of Hungary. The pleas and the stories of the poor Hungarians should make us open wide our eyes to the realization of the importance of freedom, and it should make us more determined to hold higher and higher the torch of freedom.

Scouts to Observe 47th Anniversary

NEW YORK (UP) — The 47th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be celebrated Feb. 6 to 12 with the theme "Onward for God and My Country," it was announced today.

The nation's 4½ million Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers and adult leaders will celebrate the anniversary, actually on Feb. 8 in school, community and church observances through the week.

Dishwasher Repudiates Confession, Charges He Was Beaten by Police

CHICAGO (UP) — A skid row dishwasher who repudiated his confession in the murder of two teen-aged sisters sought freedom today on charges he was beaten into admitting the slayings.

Police followed up new leads indicating the girls may have been picked up after attending a movie on the night they disappeared and killed about an hour later.

Bennie (The Dishwasher) Bedwell, 20, a husky illiterate, retracted his signed confession Wednesday at a habeas corpus hearing before Chief Justice Wilbert F. Crowley in criminal court. Bedwell's attorney, David E. Bradshaw, sai' he will press for his client's release on bail when the hearing resumes this afternoon on grounds the confession is invalid.

Faces Murder Hearing

Bedwell also faced a routine hearing on murder charges placed against him. The hearing, in Bedford police court, is expected to be continued automatically.

Bedwell testified he was beaten and cowed into admitting he and a companion slugged Barbara Grimes, 15, and her sister, Patricia, 13, and dumped them into a ditch to freeze the night of Jan. 13. The bodies were found Jan. 17.

Sheriff Joseph Lohman, who announced Bedwell's 14-page confession Sunday, denied the skid row romeo was forced to confess.

Says He Was Slugged

"He never was beaten or bullied," Lohman said. "Nothing like that ever happened."

Bedwell said Sheriff's police slugged and bewildered him during three days of gruelling questioning and lie detector ttests.

"I was so upset that I didn't know what was going on and still don't," Bedwell, a Paris, Tenn., native, drawled.

Bedwell said that after the lengthy questioning, he agreed to sign a confession. In the statement, Bedwell said he and a skid row friend named Frank spent a week with the girls touring cheap bars and hotels before the slaying.

A medical report cast serious doubt on Bedwell's confession when it revealed food found in the stomach of one of the girls was the same she had eaten the night of their disappearance Dec. 28.

The report has led authorities to theorize the girls may have been killed by a gang of teen-age hoodlums while en route home from the theater that night.

South Williford Student Wins Soil Poster Contest

Mike Blue, eighth grade student of the South Williford school, is the county winner of the 1956 soil conservation poster contest. Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blue, RFD 1, Harrisburg, and wins a cash award of $10 which is offered by the Saline County Soil Conservation District. This contest is open to both seventh and eighth grade students in Saline county and is done to help encourage students to study soil conservation.

Mike's poster is very interesting and shows that he has done a considerable amount of reading and study on the subject. His poster shows strip cropping as a means of controlling erosion on a sloping field. It also shows multiflora rose fences and the use of livestock to efficiently utilize the pastures and hay produced on the farm.

Kenneth Alvey and Nickie Hicks, eighth grade students of the Muddy school, were second and third place winners in the contest. Twelve students from four schools in the county prepared posters.

Files Petition in Circuit Court To Contest Will of Mrs. Siddall

George Bennett Aydelott, Mountain township resident, has filed a petition in circuit court to contest the will of his aunt, Mrs. Katie Siddall.

Mrs. Siddall died Feb. 22, 1956.

The petition, filed for Mr. Aydelott by Atty. K. C. Ronalds, names George M. Robertson, both as an individual and executor of the estate of Mrs. Siddall; Virginia Ozment, his sister; and Anna Aydelott Carnett, Evelyn Aydelott Oppenlander and James Willis Aydelott as defendants. All are nephews and nieces of the late Mrs. Siddall.

The petition says that on Feb. 15, 1955, Mrs. Siddall made her purported last will and testament, that by its terms, she bequeathed to her sister, Nora Robertson, all of her real estate. Mrs. Siddall owned considerable acreage in Section 1 of Mountain township.

The petition charges that at the time the will was made she was an aged woman incapable of making any proper distribution of her estate.

It mentions that the will was probated April 30, 1956, and that George Robertson was named executor.

The petition asks that the instrument be set aside and be declared null and void and that the estate be distributed by the probate court in a manner prescribed by law.

The recorded will of Mrs. Siddall shows she left a diamond ring to the niece Anna Carnett; the rest of her jewelry, quilts and linens to her sister, Mrs. Robertson; all of her real estate to Mrs. Robertson; half of her personal property to Mrs. Robertson; and the remaining half divided among Evelyn Oppenlander, Anna Carnett, James Willis Aydelott and George Aydelott.

George Robertson and Virginia Ozment are children of Mrs. Nora Robertson, who has died since the death of Mrs. Siddall.

Eisenhower Declares Kentucky Floodlands a Disaster Area

President Asks Liberalization of Immigration Act

Special Message To Congress Proposes Haven for Refugees

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today for new immigration legislation that would grant a haven in the United States to persons who "flee from Communist persecution and tyranny."

In a special message to Congress, the President also requested liberalization of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, basic immigration law of the land.

At the outset of his message the President outlined the need for emergency legislation to help Hungarian and other refugees.

He said the eyes of the world have been fixed on Hungary where thousands of men, women and children have fled to seek asylum abroad.

"Our position of world leadership demands that, in partnership with other nations of the free world, we be in a position to grant that asylum," Mr. Eisenhower said.

Two Basic Steps

He called for two basic steps to help anyone—not Hungarians alone—fleeing from communism:

"First, I recommend that the Congress enact legislation giving the President power to authorize the attorney general to parole into the United States temporarily under such conditions as he may prescribe escapees, selected by the secretary of state, who have fled or in the future flee from Communist persecution and tyranny," the President said.

He said the number who should be granted temporary admission on a parole basis in any one year should not exceed the average of aliens who have been permitted to enter the country over the past eight years by special acts of Congress outside the basic immigration system.

"Second, I urge the Congress promptly to enact legislation giving the necessary discretionary power to the attorney general to permit aliens paroled into the United States, who intend to stay here, to remain as permanent residents," he said.

The President said this legislation "would effectively solve the problem of the Hungarian escapees who have already arrived." Furthermore, he said, it would provide "a means for coping with the cases of certain Korean orphans, adopted children and other aliens who have been granted emergency admission to this country and now remain here in an indefinite status."

Area Gets Deepest Snow of Season; No Collisions Reported

Harrisburg late yesterday and last night got its deepest snow of the season, but it was not more than an inch and there were few adverse effects of the fall.

The snow changed to a misty rain during the night and this morning there was considerable melting.

Reports this morning were that although caution in driving was required, roads were not exceptionally slippery.

There were no reports of collisions.

T. L. Whitfield, 66, Former Resident, Dies at Evansville, Ind.

Thomas Leslie Whitfield, 66, former resident of Harrisburg, died Tuesday in Evansville where he made his home. He was a retired carpenter.

He leaves his wife, Jessie, and five sons: John C. of Madisonville, Ky., Austin E. of Fresno, Calif., Thomas, Cecil and Leslie all of Evansville; also three daughters, Mrs. Marvin Simmon, Fresno, Calif., Mrs. Larue Noffsinger, Crofton, Ky., and Mrs. Edward Dillard of River Grove, Ill.

Mr. Whitfield was the brother of the late Mrs. Mary Phillips of Harrisburg and is the uncle of William G. Durham.

Funeral services will be Friday at 2 p. m. in Madisonville, Ky., at the Sidney funeral home.

William J. Gray, 73, Of Galatia Dies

William J. Gray, 73, of Galatia, died at the Harrisburg hospital today at 1:30 a. m. following a long illness.

The body was taken to the Courtney funeral home in Galatia and funeral plans have not been made.

He leaves his wife, Rhoda, and one son, Randall of Elgin, Ill.

Mr. Gray was the father of Paul Gray of Galatia who passed away only last week.

Vincennes Man Captured After Bank Robbery

PRINCETON, Ind. (UP) — An unemployed mechanic was held in Gibson County Jail today on charges of robbing the Patoka National Bank of $6,375 with the aid of a toy pistol.

Robert E. Hill, 24, Vincennes, Ind., was captured 40 minutes after the holdup Wednesday afternoon. Illinois state troopers overtook Hill's car on Ill. 1, north of Mount Carmel, Ill.

Authorities said Hill surrendered without a fight and admitted the robbery "because I needed the money." The stolen bills were found in a hat covered by a pillow in the car.

Hill entered the bank carrying a toy pistol wrapped in paper and informed bookkeeper Henry Sloane and cashier Josephine Garrett of the holdup with a note. They said he grabbed a "pretty good handful of money" and fled.

Hill drove to Mount Carmel, police said, where he asked directions of E. F. Compton, gas station attendant. Compton had heard a news flash of the robbery and when Hill left, he informed police.

Compton said he became suspicious of Hill because he asked how to get through Mount Carmel without using the main streets.

E. W. Irwin Rites Friday

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the Harrisburg First Methodist church for E. W. Irvin, retired carpenter who died yesteday morning at his home south of Rudement. The Rev. W. L. Cummins will officiate and interment will be in the Old Spring Grove cemetery near Jordon curve on Route 13.

The body lies in state in the chapel of the Gibbons funeral home.

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Mrs. Virginia R. Templeton, 25, was awarded a divorce Wednesday after testifying that her husband believed in being informal at her dinner parties. She said he would wear no shirt and no shoes.

Freezing Drizzle, Rain Brings New Threats to Midwest, Southeast Areas

By United Press

Freezing drizzle and rain brought new threats today to the Midwest and the flood-stricken Southeast.

Up to an inch of rain was predicted in the Southeast where at least 11 persons have been killed by raging flood waters in West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee.

Freezing rain iced highways in eastern Oklahoma and much of Kansas and Missouri during the night, and weathermen warned the freezing precipitation will spread through the middle Mississippi Valley and into the Ohio Valley today.

In the West, Army mountain troops reached 60 railroad crewmen stranded by heavy snow in Cumbres Pass in the southern Colorado Rockies.

The troops today will begin the task of hauling the men, some of whom have been snow-bound since Saturday, to Chama, N. M., aboard Army "weasels." One of the crewmen is suffering from a bad cold, but the others were reported in good condition.

A warming trend moved into southern California, bringing relief from frigid readings and snow that have plagued the Los Angeles area.

Southerly winds also brought warmer weather to the western Great Lakes and the central Plains. Eau Claire, Wis., which had a low of 24 below zero Wednesday morning, was 36 degrees "warmer" today with a low of 12 above.

Snow, rain mixed with snow and rain hit much of the nation east of the Rockies. Heavy snow fell over the Appalachians in West Virginia and lighter accumulations occurred in the northern Great Lakes region, sections of the northern Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley.

Mid-East Resolution Approved By House, Faces Senate Revision

WASHINGTON (UP) — Overwhelming House approval put President Eisenhower's "fight if we must" Middle East Doctrine before the Senate today where it faced almost certain revision.

But in the end, informed Senate sources said, a modified version of the President's Middle East resolution still acceptable to the administration will pass the Senate also.

There were indications that Senate approval will require considerably more time than did House approval—a prospect distasteful to administration spokesman who have been urging speed.

More criticism of Middle East policies from Senate Democrats was in prospect. And some Democrats already were saying that the controversy over the Middle East plan has jeopardized the administration's general foreign aid program.

The House approved the President's plan Wednesday by a vote of 355-61 with 188 Democrats and 167 Republicans voting for it and 35 Democrats plus 26 Republicans voting against it.

As approved by the House, the resolution would give the President authority to use U. S. military forces, if necessary, to halt overt Communist aggression in the Middle East. It also would authorize the spending of 200 million dollars in previously appropriated funds in the area for economic and military aid.

The aid provisions of the resolution have provoked much of the opposition in the combined Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees which have been considering the proposal.

How Congressmen From Illinois Voted on Resolution

WASHINGTON (UP) — The following list shows how the Illinois members of the House voted Wednesday when the House passed, 355-61, President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution:

Democrats for the resolution: Boyle, Dawson, Gordon, Gray, Kluczynski, Mack, O'Brien, O'Hara, Price.

Republicans for the resolution: Allen, Arends, Chiperfield, Michel, Simpson, Springer, Vursell.

Democrats against: Yates.

Republicans against: Byrne, Church, Collier, McVey, Mason, Sheehan.

Rep. Gray to Fight For Prison Sites Before House Group

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Kenneth Gray (R-Ill.) said today he will appear before an appropriations subcommittee next week on behalf of proposed sites in southern Illinois for a new 10 million dollar federa prison.

Gray said he will appear before the Department of Justice Appropriations subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee.

"It's not going to be an easy battle to get this appropriation," Gray said.

Gray said officials of the Justice Department's Bureau of Prisons appeared before the subcommittee Wednesday. They presented the group with statistics supporting the need for a new prison, but did not say where the institution would be built.

The officials said the special committee appointed to choose a site for the prison had not met to make a deicsion. The site committee inspected a number of proposed sites earlier this month.

Death Toll in Four States Mounts to 11

Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky And Tennessee Hit

By United Press

President Eisenhower declared Kentucky floodlands a major disaster area today as the death toll mounted to at least 11 in a four-state area where more rain, cold and snow added to the miseries of thousands left homeless.

The chief executive ordered federal aid to help the suffering in Kentucky, one of the hardest hit states. West Virginia has made a similar appeal.

Virginia and Tennessee also were hard hit by days of rain that turned placid mountain streams into raging torrents that pounded into one town after another.

Several towns were isolated and not even helicopters could land with desperately needed food and medicine. Damage soared to an estimated 15 million dollars.

The Army, the National Guard, Red Cross and civilian volunteers worked together against the natural barriers of water, mountains, and mud to try to move food and medical supplies into the stricken regions.

Mud Clogs Streets

Cold, rain and snow were predicted for Kentucky, Virginia, and West Virginia. The Weather Bureau forecast cold and more rain for eastern Tennessee, where TVA installations have held the flood waters partly in check.

At Hazard, Ky., stores, business houses and industries were shut down because of lack of fuel and power. Mud clogged the streets and oozed into some downtown stores. Residents of the town searched for dry firewood to heat their homes.

At least 1,000 persons were forced to flee their homes in and around Williamson and Logan, W. Va.

Occasional heavy showers were predicted today for southwest Virginia.

Pikesville, Ky., a city of 5,500 isolated for two days, received desperately needed supplies early today from National Guard convoys from London and Ashland. But the city still needed more.

Water was receding in some of the stricken areas but that only eased the situation. More heavy rains in some of the backwoods mountain communities around the Cumberland River kept waters near all-time high marks.

Grundy, Va., a town of 2,000, appealed by radio for help Wednesday night and aid was sent this morning from nearby Richland.

Davis Taylor, manager of Radio Station WRIC at Richland said Grundy "has about 100 homes destroyed."

A Kentucky National Guard convoy Wednesday brought emergency generators, 400 shots of typhoid vaccine, blankets, and food for the 5,500 residents of Hazard, cut off for 20 hours.

Receding flood waters left a two-foot mud blanket upon the town.

The list of deaths verified thus far included Lester Moore, Harlan, Ky.; Queenie Young, 75, Logan, W. Va.; Jimmy Deer, 7, Logan County, W. Va.; Donald Calloway, War, W. Va.; unidentified boy, about 9, Heyden, Ky.; and an unidentified girl, about 11, Phyllis, Ky.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Foggy winter weather plays havoc with air travel. Airports have to be closed because landing is not safe. Some flights are cancelled. Others are routed to different destinations than originally scheduled. Planes are grounded and passengers become distressed. Confusion becomes the order of the day.

Human experience is very much like this winter air travel. Foggy thinking muddles our actions. We find outselves heading for goals or reaching destinations which are far short of our best judgments.

When we find an obstacle in the way of our moral standards we are inclined to lower our standards rather than attempt to find other ways of reaching our high goals. One little temptation grounds us, and we forget that our ideals must not be surrendered.

Civil War Training Entrenchments Found

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — (AP) — Entrenchments nearly 100 years old have been discovered by workmen on the campus of Union College.

College records show that two professors trained a student cadet corps early in the Civil War and the trenches were the work of one of America's first college cadet units.

The cadets left their classrooms as a unit for active duty in the war. Their leader, Prof. Elias Peissner, was killed at Chancellorsville and is memorialized at Union by a debating prize established in his honor.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: U. S. Ambassador To Egypt Gets Rough Cross - Examination From Senators; King Saud Criticized For Lack Of Freedom And Slavery; Sheik Of Kuwait Runs Model Country.

WASHINGTON. — Slavery in Saudi Arabia came in for tough criticism from Sen. Wayne Morse (D., Ore.) during a closed-door session of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. Ambassador Raymond A. Hare, U. S. envoy to Egypt, was on the witness stand, trying to defend U. S. policy toward Near East dictators.

"Are these not totalitarian monarchies we are supporting in the Near East?" Morse asked, referring chiefly to King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

"No," replied the ambassador.

"If they are not totalitarian monarchies and if I got out in the street and criticized the government, what would happen?" pursued Morse.

"You'd get into trouble," admitted the ambassador.

"You mean I'd go to jail."

The ambassador laughed, tacitly agreed.

"And if I were a Baptist minister and started to convert people in Saudi Arabia?" asked Morse.

"You'd be in trouble," admitted the ambassador.

"In other words there is no freedom of religion. Now suppose I was a pamphleteer, "continued the relentless senator from Oregon, "and tried to write what I wanted to write."

"You'd be in trouble," admitted Ambassador Hare.

"In other words, there is no freedom of the press," concluded Morse. "In brief, there is not one single protection under what we call the Bill of Rights."

NO RUSSIAN THREAT

"That's true," said the ambassador, "but it's changing."

"How?"

"Even the lowliest person can see the king."

"There is nothing modern about that," remonstrated Morse. "In feudal days, even the lowliest serf could see his lord and master.

"Now what effect are the Russians having in this area?" Morse changed his tack.

Ambassador Hare reported that the Russians were flooding the Near East with literature, books, and propaganda, and were "selling" lots of arms.

"Selling arms?" interposed Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas.

"Yes."

"Don't you think we had better sell them, too, rather than give them away?"

Hare did not have a conclusive answer, and Senator Morse returned to the cross-examination. "You say the Russians are making great headway," he asked. "Do you see any impending threat on the part of Russia against the Arabian countries?"

There was a long pause. Finally Ambassador Hare replied: "That will depend on future developments."

"I would like to have an answer to that question," pursued Morse. "Do you see any impending threat on the part of Russia against the Arabian countries?"

"No, not at the moment," replied the ambassador, "but a lot of developments could come in the future."

"Yes," said Morse, "suppose we pour manpower and arms in there. Wouldn't that creat a situation much more conducive to war?"

The ambassador hesitated.

BAILING OUT OIL COMPANIES

"Do you have any idea of the value of the oil in the Arabian countries?" asked Morse.

"No."

"A rough idea?"

"It's worth billions."

"Now why should American taxpayers be giving their dollars to the oil companies to help protect their investments?"

The ambassador didn't have an answer. When Morse asked about slavery, however, the ambassador explained that slavery in Saudi Arabia was not as bad as it sounded. When a child was born to a nobleman in Saudi Arabia, he said, a slave child was placed with him so they could grow up together.

"Mr. Hare," asked Morse, "is it not true that human beings are bought and sold in Saudi Arabia?"

Ambassador Hare admitted that it was true.

MODEL COUNTRY

Right next door to Saudi Arabia is a strange contrast in what enlightened Arab leadership can do to prevent disease, poverty, and communism. In the Sheikdom of Kuwait, a British protectorate, the sheik gets about as much oil royalties as King Saud — approximately $260,000,000 annually. But instead of spending it largely on defense and on his royal household, Sheik Sir Abdullah Al Salim Al Subah has used his oil money so that every citizen benefits.

Like King Saud, Sheik Abdullah's power is absolute. He wears no jewels, makes a hobby of reading Arab poetry, goes fishing in the Persian Gulf with ordinary subjects, is widely interested in western affairs, and cooperates carefully with the British under whose protection he operates.

The British, unlike oil companies in Saudi Arabia, have not hesitated to advise Sheik Abdullah. As a result, 30 per cent of his royalties is held in reserve to support the country after oil gives out. The balance has been used for modern boulevards, parks, water-distalaltion plants, power stations, medical services, and schools.

Children get free education in air-conditioned schools, as compared with the children of Saudi Arabia who are over 90 per cent illiterate. Parents are paid $65 a year to send their children to school. Schools even have swimming pools.

Every resident gets free medical service in modern, air-conditioned hospitals, including free eyeglasses and false teeth. Slavery was wiped out some time ago.

Note—The Kuwait Oil Company, which owns the concession in Kuwait, is jointly owned by the British Petroleum Co., and Gulf Oil, the latter in turn being owned by the Mellon family of Pittsburgh.

Schedule of Baptist Hour Over WEBQ

The following is the schedule for the Baptist Hour Association over radio station WEBQ daily from 7 to 8 a. m. with the church and minister in charge.

(Where churches are mentioned without a preacher, the pastor has resigned and other has not been selected).

Feb. 1. Dorrisville Baptist, Rev. William Fuson.

Feb. 2. Marion Second Baptist, Pastor Corben.

Feb. 3. Shawneetown Baptist, Rev. Rey Pady.

Feb. 4. Saline Association Missionary, Rev. Ernest R. Ammon.

Musical sands cover a beach near the small port of Oqair on the Persian Gulf coast of Saudi Arabia. The sands just above high-water mark make a whistling sound at every footstep.

West Frankfort Church Wins Attendance Contest

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP) — A West Frankfort church has placed second in a nationwide attendance contest.

The Rev. Glen Wheeler, minister of the First Christian Church, said he was notified of the award by the sponsoring Christian Life magazine in Chicago.

Some 800 churches participated in the contest. The average attendance for the West Frankfort church rose from 391 to 1,033 during a six-week campaign.

First place went to the First Presbyterian Church of Bremerton, Wash., the Rev. Wheeler said.

U. S. Steel Earnings High

NEW YORK (AP) —Directors of United States Steel Corp. climaxed the corporation's greatest fourth quarter in history with a 10-cent boost in the quarterly dividend to 75 cents a common share.

Net income for the December quarter, announced Tuesday, hit a new high for any fourth quarter at $104,528,839 or $1.83 a common share and came within a whisker of the all-time quarterly high of $105,225,558 set in the second quarter of 1955. Sales at $1,194,587,925 were the best for any three months in history.

For the full year the company, which makes nearly one out of every three tons produced in the nation, earned $347,865,150, or $6.01 a share, against $370,099,353 or $6.44 per share in 1955. Earnings were held back as a result of the 34-day steel strike last summer.

However sales for the full year, despite the strike, set a new record amounting to $4,228,869,270, compared with $4,097,680,287 in 1955.

In the fourth quarter of 1955 earnings totaled $102,690,682 or $1.80 a share on sales of $1,093,747,901.

Baptist Minister and Family Honored With Farewell Banquet

Members o the Carrier Mills Baptist churc and their families held a farewell banquet Friday evening in the lower rooms of the church in honor of the minister, Rev. Ernest Ammon, and family.

Over 100 people gathered for the splendid meal. With all available table space in use several of the people had to wait until the second table to be served. Even with the basketball tournament at white the church was crowded to honor the pastor and his family for their many years of faithful service to the congregation.

Some one recollected that the congregation had bought Rev. Ammon three new cars during his ministry. Also the church had received nationwide recognition because of the use of a "wire-recorder" that Rev. Ammon had used to carry the services to shut-ins who could not attend the church.

In 1949 there was a nine weeks' revival in which over one hundred people were saved and only five were children. The church has also made fine financial progress, having in assets and bonds about $14,000, having spent about $6,000 in redecorating in the past few years. A $10,000.00 air conditioner was installed two years ago.

After a bountiful meal, Bro. Cebren Parks, chairman of the Deacons' Board, made a short speech and presented to the Ammon family a mahogany china cabinet. It was given in appreciation for the many years of service.

Many sincere and well wishes go with Rev. Ammon and his family as Saline Baptist Missionary about the middle of February. This is the longest stay of any pastor in the history of the Carrier Mills Baptist church — the church into which Rev. Ammon was baptized in 1931 by Rev. H. C. Croslin. Many of the members publicly expressed their regrets that Rev. Ammon was closing his work with the church when the church was making such marked progress.

The following people attended and registered as guests: Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Pankey, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hancock and son, Tommy, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Dale Pankey and children, Johnnie and Janie, Mr. and Mrs. Cebren Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clore and children, Larry and Marcie Jo, Jade Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner and children, Earlene and Frederick Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meler and son, Jerry, Mrs. Frank McMahan, Mrs. Wilsie Parten, Mrs. Josie Lloyd, Miss Addie Overstake, Mrs. Mammie Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Koster;

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wiley, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Blackman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bell and daughter, Rose Mary, Mrs. Gertie Killman, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Starkey and daughter, Elaine, Carrie B. Wasson, Mr. and Mrs. George Hutson and children, Freddie, Ernest, Billy and George Jr.;

Mrs. Mabel Cates, Mrs. Nell Pate, Mrs. Blanch Whitney, Mrs. Oma Baker, Mrs. Harry Rann, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAtee, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Carner, Mrs. Elbert McDonald R. D. Lail, Mrs. Lois Flannel, Mrs. Jack Coats and children, Jimmy and Jerry, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Warren and children, Dewey and Rose Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Whiting and son, Freddie, Mr. and Mrs. Morse Hill and children Linda, Peggy and Vicky, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bennett, Mrs. Addie Miller, Mrs. Eva Nolen, Mrs. Maggie McCutcheon and daughter, Donna, Mrs. Earl Hancock, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Allen, Mrs. Irene Rushing, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Quick and son, Darrell, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Moody and Don Socia.

Several contributed to the gift but were unable to attend.

The many friends of the church appointed Mrs. Orval Blackman and Miss Addie Overstake to arrange the banquet and accept contributions for the mahogany breakfront china cabinet. The Spears' Florist gave a splendid arrangement of white carnations for the tables and the Uzzle Furniture store of Eldorado delivered the gift the afternoon before the banquet Friday night.

Rev. Ammon and his family want to sincerely thank the committee and all who had a part in the occasion.

Revenue Commissioner Explains Exemptions For Income Taxpayers

By RUSSELL C. HARRINGTON
Commissioner of Internal Revenue
Written for United Press

WASHINGTON (UP)—You are a $600 exemption, which means you do not have to pay federal income tax on $600 of your income. Your wife is another, on your return if you file jointly, on her own if you file separately, but not on both.

Beyond this basic exemption for the taxpayer, we get into a number of questions covering such things as support of elderly relatives, school age children who earn money, divorced couples, survivors of persons who have died, and extra exemption for the aged and blind.

Each taxpayer gets an extra $600 exemption if he is 65 or older, and still another $600 if he is blind. The $600 extra exemption for blindness can be claimed by the taxpayer at any age. The exemption for blindness applies only to the taxpayer, husband or wife or both, but not to dependents.

The Internal Revenue Service perhaps rates you older than you think you are, by one day, and it may be worth money to you. You are considered to add a year to your age on the day before your birthday. So, if your 65th birthday fell on or before Jan. 1, 1957, you may legally claim that extra $600 exemption for age in your return for 1956.

Exemptions for dependents are figured differently than for husband and wife. For example, a taxpayer who supports his 70-year-old mother is entitled to just one $600 exemption for her and nothing extra for her age.

Children and Students

For a person to qualify as taxpayer's dependent, the taxpayer must provide more than one-half of his or her support. The only exception to this rule is where several persons contribute to the support of an individual.

For example, if several sons and daughters support their mother, and none of them contributes more than half the support, they may designate one of their number to claim the $600 exemption for her as a dependent. The person designated must contribute more than 10 per cent of the support, and all the others who contribute more than 10 per cent must file a declaration that they will not claim the exemption. Such a declaration is made on Form 2120, available at any revenue service office.

The law permits a child under 19 or a full-time student of any age to be claimed as a dependent. The law defines a full-time student as one who is engaged in full-time study at a recognized school for at least five months of the year, or who is in one of several full-time on-the-farm training programs.

A child may earn money, even more than $600, and still be claimed as a $600 exemption on his father's tax return. The deciding factors are that the child be under 19 or a full-time student, and that the taxpayer who claims him must contribute more than half his support.

"Head of Household"

However, if a child earns $600 or more he must file a return for himself. He may claim his own personal exemption on his own return. This means he actually qualifies as two exemptions, if someone else is footing more than half his living expenses: One exemption on his own return and one on the return of the supporter.

If a child earns less than $600 and his employer withholds taxes from his pay, then the child is entitled to a refund of those taxes. Like everyone else, he must file a return to get that refund.

The law provides special tax rates for any individual who qualifies as "head of household." This term means generally an unmarried or legally separate person who furnished more than half the maintenance cost of a household which was also home during the entire year for (A) any related person who qualifies as the taxpayer's dependent or (B) your unmarried child, grandchild or stepchild, even though that child is not a dependent. You may also qualify as a head of household if you maintain a home elsewhere for your father or mother and either one of them qualifies as your dependent.

The cost of maintaining a household includes such items as the rent, insurance repairs, utilities, food. It does not include clothing, education, medical expenses and the like, even though you may pay them.

Form 1040 must be used to claim the benefits of the lower tax rates for a head of household.

If you are divorced or legally separated from your wife at the end of the year, you may not claim her as an exemption, even if you paid her support.

Social and Personal Items

Crescent Home Bureau Holds Regular Meeting

The Crescent Home Bureau unit held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Wilma Irvin.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman with 10 members answering roll call. After the business meeting the minor topic on "Posture" was given by Mary Piper, assisted by Wanda Taylor. Various ways to improve posture were demonstrated and were quite interesting.

Mrs. Regina Skelley and Mrs. Larrie Lands gave the major topic, "Achieving Style in Dress" after which the members held a discussion on the different styles.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Irvin and her assistant to the following: Mary Piper, Regina Skelley, Larrie Lands, Vivian Harris, Betty C. Jarrells, Wanda Taylor, Jane Brown, June Gibbons, Leatta Price and Wilma Irvin.

McKinley Avenue Intermediate Girls Have Valentine Party

Mrs. Elbert Norris was hostess to two classes of 13-year-old girls in the intermediate department of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church for a Valentine party Tuesday evening.

The dining table in the Norris home was centered with an arrangement of fresh flowers and red candles in keeping with the Valentine theme.

The girls played hearts and Bible lotto and prizes were awarded to Kerry Bradley and Linda Vaughn and to Helen Smith who received the door prize. They also exchanged comic valentines.

Mrs. Norris who is a teacher gave a short devotion on "Love."

Refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips and Cokes with Valentine favors were served to Brenda Gidcumb, Linda Woodruff, Lenora Endicott, Wyonna English, Jackie Vaughn, Frances Edwards, Linda Vaughn, Norma Taylor, Helen Sue Aldridge, Mary Joyce Sheldon, a visitor Kerry Bradley, and the teachers, Mrs. Houston Smith and Mrs. Norris.

Presbyterian Lenore Circle Holds Meeting

Misses Edith and Mary Morrison assisted by Mrs. Ann Cook were hostesses to the Lenore circle of the First Presbyterian church, Monday evening, Jan. 28.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Edith Morrison. Mabel Mallonee, program charman, had charge of the meeting. Julia Williamson gave the Bible study on Nationalism versus Internationalism and Lelle Anderson, social education chairman, gave the lesson on United Nations learning to work together and live together. The Year Book of Prayer was given by Mabel Mallonee.

Edith Morrison conducted the business meeting after which refreshments of homemade cookies, coffee, candy and nuts were served to Mrs. Lettie Barter, Juanita Joiner, Mrs. Nelle Meyers, Mabel Mallonee, Ethel Ewing, Julia Williamson, Gladys Gaskins, Mildred Boicourt, Mrs. S. M. Farrar, Mrs. Ownly Furman, Mrs. Stella Brashear, Lelle Anderson, and two visitors, Mrs. J. M. Burley and Miss Alice Mount.

Delmar Cox of 725 South McKinley, who has been employed as field representative for GMAC, working out of the Mt. Vernon district office, has been promoted to assistant credit man in the St. Louis branch office of the same firm.

Mrs. William G. Durham returned to her home at 211 East Ford yesterday from the Lightner hospital where she has been for the past 14 days undergoing treatment for her back. She is progressing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hancock visited their son, Earl Steve Hancock, and family in Gary, Ind., last week end. Twin daughters, born Dec. 7 to the young Mr. and Mrs. Hancock, are home now and are progressing nicely.

WATCHING A DREAM WALKING—With their hearts in their eyes, women of Moscow view a showing of spring fashions which are hopelessly out of their reach. In a supposedly classless society, their lot is a lifetime lived in drab clothing. Only the relatively few women who circulate in the world of high government salaries can afford the sleek fashions, according to Look magazine, in which this picture first appeared.

WEBQ to Participate in First Annual Farm Broadcasting Day on February 2

WEBQ in conjunction with the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, of Washington, D. C., will participate in the first annual farm broadcasting day, Feb. 2, 1957, it was announced today by I. M. Taylor, station manager.

"We believe the American public will gain a greater understanding and appreciation of the vital work being accomplished by radio stations," Taylor stated.

Mayor Claud Gibbons also has issued a proclamation designating Feb. 2 farm broadcasting day here.

The United States Department of Agriculture, along with business firms and civic organizations, are all making increasing use of broadcasting to communicate important information to farmers. The regular use of radio for these purposes is credited by leaders in all walks of life with the rapid advancement of agriculture which has more than doubled output in the last 50 years.

A key service provided to farmers by every station in the country is weather information. Accurate, timely, daily and long-range forecasts provided by radio enable the farmer to protect his crops from loss and take advantage of breaks in the weather.

Market news is a second important service provided by American broadcasters. Without such prompt information, farmers would be unable to sell their products efficiently as they do now and the steady, plentiful movement of food to consumers could be hampered.

In its latest bi-annual survey of radio market news broadcasts issued last month, the United States Department of Agriculture related that 1461 radio stations reported carrying market news, mostly on a daily basis. This is a sizable increase over the 1954 survey when 1311 radio stations were listed as carrying market news.

Radio Station WEBQ carries 12 newscasts, 6 market reports, and 16 weather forecasts daily.

The following special programs will be carried Feb. 2 in observance of farm broadcasting day:

6:30 a. m.—Salute to "Farm Broadcasting Day," Louie Webb, township extension agent and Albert F. Bidwell, farmer, Newton County, Michigan.

9:15 a. m.—George Smith, Soil Conservation officer for Pope, Hardin, and Massac counties, Golconda Soil Conservation talk.

10 a. m.—Tom Morgan and the Saline County Soil Conservation directors talk.

11:30 a. m.—University of Illinois College of Agriculture, L. H. Simerl, speaker.

1:30 p. m.—L. B. Kimmel, Saline County Farm Adviser.

2 p. m.—Farm Opportunities for Young People, Charles B. Shuman, president American Farm Bureau Federation.

3:45 p. m.—Illinois Agriculture Association, Don Peasley with "How Farmers' Views are Expressed."

The No. 1 cause for fires in the United States last year was careless smoking and matches, which led to 122,000 fires.

Three Get Prison Terms for Campbell Hill Bank Robbery

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Three of the bandits who robbed the First State Bank of Campbell Hill of $2,500 last November have been given prison terms.

Federal Judge William G. Juergenes Tuesday sentenced Arnold Dale Lacy, 22, to six years in prison. Two others, Jack Dewayne Shearon, 18, and Edward L. James, 19, were given five years. Lacy was described as the leader of the youthful gang.

All three pleaded guilty. Another of the bandits, Kenneth Lord, is awaiting trial. A fifth, John F. Cookson, has pleaded guilty and will be sentenced Feb. 12.

Prisoner Tries to Take Over Plane, Loses Bout with Petite Stewardess

WASHINGTON (UP) — A burly escaping prisoner trying to take over an airliner 17,000 feet up pitted himself against a petite stewardess. He lost.

The Northwest Airlines four-engine Stratocruiser was 45 minutes out of Detroit bound for Washington with 43 passengers and six crew members aboard.

Among the passengers were four guarded prisoners including 26-year-old alleged bank robber Louis Arquilla of Braintree, Mass. He and two others were being taken to Baltimore, Md., to face charges in a $12,600 bank robbery.

Stewardess Virginia Buss of Minneapolis walked down the plane's aisle and unlocked the door of the cockpit.

Suddenly Arquilla threw his dinner plate into the face of the deputy marshal guarding him and lunged for the cockpit door. A table knife in his hand.

Miss Buss sensed someone coming at her. She rushed through the door, slammed it shut and screamed for help.

The 170-pound prisoner ran against the door and tried to force it open. The 107-pound stewardess held it shut.

Pilot A. J. Stahel of Minneapolis told the co-pilot to take over the controls and rushed to help the stewardess.

"All I heard was a scream for help and a crash," he said later. "But I knew what was happening."

While they held the door, marshals tripped Arquilla and beat him on the head with a blackjack. Then they handcuffed him and took him back to his seat.

NIXON'S NEW HOME—Vice President Richard M. Nixon has announced that he is buying this big stone house, which is located on the estate of the late Homer S. Cummings, former U. S. Attorney General. It is in the fashionable Wesley Heights section of Northwest Washington. Nixon said that he and his family will move in about two months. (NEA Telephoto)

Derailment Idles Mine at Du Quoin

DU QUOIN, Ill. (U.P.) —The new Kathleen Slope mine at Du Quoin was idle today after four 55-ton coal cars overturned and two others were derailed.

A spokesman said the derailment occurred on mine property Tuesday night. The day shift worked Wednesday, but the night shift did not work because coal cars could not be moved on the blocked tracks.

Cleanup crews began working to reload the coal and clear the tracks. The mine employs some 300 men.

Monroe Bennett, 84, Dies at Eldorado

Monroe Bennett, 84, whose home was at 1905 Pine street in Eldorado, died at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

Surviving are his wife, Rachel, and three children: Stella Cross, Eldorado, Sarah Asbell of Harrisburg and Glen Bennett of Grand Rapids, Mich.; also eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

The body will lie in state at the Eldorado funeral. Funeral plans are incomplete.

Increase Price Of Printers Ink

HILLSIDE, N. J. (U.P.)—J. M. Huber Corp. today announced price boosts averaging 12 per cent for printers ink.

Spokesmen said the sharp increase was necessary to offset a 20 per cent rise in oils used for new ink, a 7 per cent rise in rail freight costs, and higher wages and salaries.

King Saud's Partly Crippled Son Undergoes Examination

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — King Saud's partly-crippled little son undergoes examination of his paralytic ailment at Walter Reed Hospital today. President Eisenhower personally ordered the Army's vast medical facility be put at the child's disposal.

The President instructed his physician, Major Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, to arrange the examination shortly after he greeted the 3½-year-old boy Wednesday.

Prince Ma hhur Ibn Saud, 18th of the King's 21 sons, was scheduled to enter famed Walter Reed Army Medical Center this morning for an examination by some of the nation's top specialists.

Russell Walker, 43, Former Resident of Hardin County, Dies

Russell Walker, 43, former resident of Hardin county, died Tuesday afternoon at his farm home near Springfield, Ill.

The body is being returned to Rosiclare and will lie in state at the Hosick funeral home. Services will be held Friday at 1 p. m. at the Cave-in-Rock Methodist church. Rev. Floyd Hale will officiate and burial will be in Beavers cemetery with Masonic rites.

Pleads Guilty to Reckless Driving

Owen Gabel today pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving before Police Magistrate Vern Joyner Jr. after the car he was driving ran into the rear of a state maintenance truck on Route 45 in the city limits near the Triangle cafe.

Woman Receives $7,700 from Repentant Bandit

ALTON, Ill. (U.P.) — An Alton bakery operator has told police she received some $7,700 in the mail from a repentant bandit.

She believes that's about $2,700 more than the robber took from her Monday night.

Mrs. William H. Evans, who operates two bakeries with her husband, told police at the time of the stick-up that she was robbed of about $1,000 in receipts from the stores and another $4,000 which, as she put it, "I always carry with me."

She said the larger amount was savings which she intended as a surprise for her husband.

The robber wrote: "I am returning your money as I have no wish for the cops or police to track me down. If I had known there was that much I wouldn't have attempted it."

The package in which the money was returned bore a Jacksonville, Ill., postmark.

Mrs. Evans' nest-egg has now been deposited in the bank at Alton.

New Explosion Rocks Montgomery; Fail to Find Site

By United Press

A new explosion early today rocked a Montgomery, Ala., area that has been the scene of bombings and sniping but police failed in hours of search to find where it occurred.

The blast, heard practically all over the capital, sent a horde of police and newsmen scouring Negro residential areas for signs of fresh damage.

The explosion followed a wave of racial terrorism which brought formal charges today to seven white men arrested for dynamitings and shootings in Montgomery's 13 months of bus integration disputes.

Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers, disclosing the arrests Wednesday night, said some of the men have confessed a bombing which injured one Negro last Sunday.

Man Wanted for Double Murder Held at Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (U.P.) — A Haverhill, Mass., man wanted as a suspect in the double-murder of his former wife and a companion was in the custody of the county sheriff her today.

Police said Arthur Koehler admitted that he shot down his former wife, Jeanette, and Charles Testa on a downtown Haverhill street last Aug. 8.

Sheriff Leonard Reinhardt said Koehler had been in Belleville for the past three months working as a salesman for a roofing company. He was arrested after an anonymous phone call to police.

Reinhardt said Koesler readily admitted the shooting and surrendered a .32 caliber German automatic pistol which he said was the one he had used.

Supreme Court Justice Retires

WASHINGTON (U.P.)— The White House today announced the retirement of Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed, effective Feb. 25.

Reed, a Democrat from Kentucky, has served on the nation's highest tribunal for 19 years.

He notified the President of his retirement in a hand written letter dated today. In the letter Reed pointed out that today marked the end of 19 years continuous service on the court. He said that having reached the age of 72 he wanted to retire on Feb. 25.

Mr. Eisenhower approved the retirement and sent Reed a personal note of congratulations on his "long and splendid record in public service."

Issue Temporary Injunction Against House Near Colp

MARION, Ill. (U.P.) — A temporary injunction, closing a bawdy house near Colp, Ill., was issued Wednesday.

Circuit Judge Harold Zimmerman granted the injunction petition. It w-- filed by Williamson County State's Atty. Carl Sneed against the Johanna "Ma" Hatchett tavern.

The tavern was one of two raided by state police two weeks ago. The operator pleaded guilty to operating a house of ill fame and was fined.

Farmer Found in Wrecked Car Suffering Broken Leg, Exposure

RICHVIEW, Ill. (U.P.)—A Washington county farmer was found Wednesday suffering from a broken leg and exposure after 13 hours in his wrecked car.

Warren Morgan, 33, Richview, lost control of his car on an ice-covered gravel road as he crossed a railroad track.

Fred Tucker, Ashley, discovered Morgan in sub-freezing temperature. Morgan's condition was listed as good today at a Centralia hospital.

U. I. Submits Record $137 Million Budget

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (U.P.)—The University of Illinois Wednesday requested a record $137,001,400 for operating expenses and capital improvements for 1957-59.

The proposed budget was presented by university President David D. Henry to the Illinois Budgetary Commission here. It included a $22,797,900 increase in operating expenses for 1957-59 over the current biennium.

Henry, in answer to questions about possible expansion of the university's undergraduate facilities at Chicago into a full four-year division, said "when all the facts are in" they probably will indicate the need for such expansion.

The budget outlined before the commission included $109,916,400 for operating expenses and $27,085,000 for new buildings and improvements. A $10,900,000 item was included for faculty and staff salary increases.

The problem of "salary adjustments" is an important one facing all colleges and universities, and Illinois is "not unique" in its requirements, Henry said.

Higher salaries are necessary for the university to keep other schools from attracting teachers to higher paying positions, Henry said.

UAW Urges Major Firms Justify Price Increases

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The United Auto Workers proposed today that major corporations be required to report and justify planned price increases to the government as a means of checking inflation.

The UAW said the government should set up a federal agency to hold public hearings on proposed price hikes. The plan would apply to firms which account for more than 20 or 25 per cent of total sales in any particular industry.

The UAW proposal was made by Nat Weinberg, director of the auto union's research and engineering department, in a statement prepared for the Joint Congressional Economic Committee.

Weinberg did not call for government price controls. He said that "just giving the public the information it needed to judge pricing policies would serve as a deterrent to unnecessary price boosts."

Brunette Model Reveals Plans to Wed Ted Williams

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Nelva More, brunette fashion and television model, will marry Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams "soon," her mother announced today.

Mrs. Fran More refused to reveal details of the forthcoming wedding, but it was believed her daughter already had left the city for Florida to join Williams. The 38-year-old baseball star has been staying at a hideaway in the Florida Keys.

The marriage will be Miss More's first and Williams' second. Miss More is in her early 20s.

Williams was divorced in May, 1955, from the former Doris R. Soule, whom he married in 1944 while a naval cadet. They have a 9-year-old daughter.

To Launch Destroyer Named After Congress Honor Medal Winner

BATH, Maine (U.P.)—The destroyer USS Bigelow, named after a Congressional Medal of Honor winner, will be launched Saturday at the Bath Iron Works, it was announced today.

Mrs. William Perry of Hebron, Ill., mother of Elmer C. Bigelow who lost his life aboard a destroyer at Corregidor in 1945, will sponsor the vessel honoring her son.

Bigelow was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for plunging into a burning ammunition magazine and extinguishing fires, thus preventing "serious internal explosions." He died of burns.

Sailor Discharged For Pregnancy In Navy Error

PORTLAND, Me. (U.P.) — The Navy is studying a miscarriage of administrative justice which discharged a healthy male sailor by reasons of "pregnancy."

The error turned up when the sailor, whom the Navy flatly refused to name, attempted to re-enlist. The records of his previvous enlistment plainly show the reason for his "honorable" discharge as "pregnancy."

But the Navy doctor who examined the prospective enlistee said the reason has to be wrong. Lt. Clyde Catts of Ripley, Tenn., said he could find no evidence of pregnancy when he gave the sailor a thorough pre-enlistment check-up. Instead he described the sailor as a perfectly healthy male in every respect

Gray Protests Cut in Distribution of Surplus Food; Says IPAC Not to Blame

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A cut in the distribution of Federal surplus food commodities to persons in seven southern Illinois counties was protested in Washington today by Congressman Kenneth J. Gray (D), 25th District of Illinois.

Over 30,000 persons in seven counties failed to receive beans, lard, and butter during the month of December. An official of the U. S. Department of Agriculture who handles the surplus food commodities states that the "depletion of farm surpluses and the international situation are the causes for the cut." However, Congressman Gray takes a different view.

In a protest to Martin D. Garber, director of Food Distribution Division of the Department of Agriculture, the southern Illinois congressman said he was "at a loss to understand why certain commodities were becoming scarce at a time when farmers were being told that their low farm prices were due to burdensome surpluses."

Garber contended that during the last fiscal year, the Agriculture Department found new outlets for the surplus food. Gray said Garber declined to specifically name the outlets other than to say they were disposed of in the regular commercial channels of trade. Congressman Gray also stated that Mr. Garber informed him that Federal donations of surplus agriculture foods should not be looked upon as a reliable or permanent solution to state and local economic problems.

Gray said, however, he was fearful that large surpluses were still on hand and that the food was being diverted for overseas shipment instead of providing for needy persons in this country.

He said he was conveying his views to the House Committee on Agriculture and asking that a thorough investigation be made in order to find out if foreign countries are being shown preference.

In addition to those public aid recipients, Gray said this affected the school lunch programs.

The congressman said he hoped the day would come when surpluses would disappear and farm income rise, but as long as there are surpluses available he feels that needy people in this country should have priority.

Gray said the discontinuance of certain food items was not the fault of the Illinois Public Aid Commission or the individual counties in Illinois as they are only able to distribute what is given to them by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Boy Questioned in Fake Bomb Scare At High School

CHICAGO (U.P.) — One of three youths questioned in a fake bomb scare at Tuley High School has admitted making a telephone call designed to give himself and 2,400 fellow students a holiday, police said today.

Police arersted two 15-year-old boys and one 16-year-old in connection with a call Wednesday that a bomb had been planted in the school.

The call came as most of the students were on their lunch hour and they were kept out of the building for about an hour while police made a futile search.

Police said one of the 15-year-old boys admitted he made the call with the hope of getting classes dismissed for the afternoon.

If Eve Hadn't Known

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) thinks the earth would be unpopulated if Eve had been as ignorant about fruit trees as the senator claims President Eisenhower is. Kerr said he "was amazed to read" that the President, during his recent tour of the nation's drought area, "mistook a peach tree for an apple tree." "Now that is really an ignorance of fundamentals," Kerr said. "Just think, if Eve hadn't known the difference between ar apple and a peach, what a barren world this would be."

IC Workers at Centralia Face Temporary Layoffs

CENTRALIA, Ill. (U.P.) — A temporary layoff faces between 500 and 800 employes at the Illinois Central Railroad roundhouse and car sheds here.

An official said the layoffs will be necessary at the end of shifts today unless strikes at three plants of the Linde Co. in New York and Pennsylvania are settled.

Linde manufactures liquid oxygen which the railroad uses in gaseous form for welding and cutting torches.

The IC spokesman said the railroad's supply of the liquid oxygen had been cut to 25 per cent of normal.

It will take about 10 days after the end of the strike before supplies are back to normal.

The government gets priority on the liquid oxygen. It is used as a component in rocket and other type fuels.

Twin County Service Company Holds 25th Annual Meeting at Carbondale

The Twin County Service company held its 25th annual meeting at Shryock Auditorium in Carbondale Saturday. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president of the board of directors, H. E. Melton of Eldorado. Members heard reports from R. L. Bigham, Cutler, secretary; Thurman White, Marion, treasurer; and Gilbert Highlander, Marion, manager.

In his board of directors report Highlander pointed out that sales of $1,240,000 for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1956 were the highest in the history of the company. During the past twenty-five years the net worth of the company has grown from $15,000 in 1932 to $353,000 in 1956.

During his report Highlander gave recognition to the early organizers of Twin County Service company. Those present were Alonzo Bowyer, E. A. Fosse, H. J. Dahmer, Dee Small of Williamson county; Frank Easterly, Jackson county and J. G. McCall, formerly of Jackson county. Mrs. Muir Overbey and Leslie Lipe were given recognition at this time for their twenty-five years of service.

The organization also paid tribute to Theodore Kueker, president of the board of directors, who had passed away on Wednesday.

Charles E. Alexander, director of sales of Illinos Farm Supply company, was the principal speaker of the afternoon program.

The share holders elected the following to serve on the board of directors for the coming year: John Dahmer, Thurman White, Williamson county; Warren Crews, F. W. Dietz, Martin Twenhafel, Jackson county; R. L. Bigham, H. O. Winter, Perry county; H. E. Melton and Clarence Etienne, Saline county.

Members present enjoyed a box lunch prepared by the ladies of the Jackson County Home Bureau. Entertainment was furnished by students of the Southern Illinois University and the Prosperity Luckies 4-H club "Rock and Roll" rhythm band from Johnston City.

Decatur Service Stations Close to Protest Picketing

DECATUR, Ill. (U.P.)—Some 60 service stations here closed their doors today and locked up their gas pumps in protest of the picketing of a service station by striking station attendants.

L. S. Ramsey, president of the Decatur Service Station Operators Assn., said the remainder of the approximately 110 stations in Decatur would be requested to close today in support of the protest.

Ramsey said the protest was called because members of the AFL Teamsters Union had refused to cross picket lines at one station to deliver gas. The station was forced to close because it could not get gasoline deliveries, Ramsey said.

Several stations have been picketed by striking employes, who are seeking wage increases to bring their pay up to a scale ranging from $1.29 to $1.52 per hour.

A DOCTOR for BLUE JAY COVE

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

If Lenoire's name was mentioned, Marcy was ready with a pithy comment. "I shouldn't," she confessed to Cass. "It only makes Aunt Cordy bound and determined to keep the dame around."

Cass's glance was questioning.

"Aunt Cordy would be much happier if I were a dame like her."

Cass smiled and pulled at her side of the slipcover which the two young women were stretching upon the living room couch. "You do a very good imitation of Lenoire," she said casually. "Why not make it the real thing?"

Marcy on her knees, raised herself enough to gaze at Cass from behind the couch. "You can't mean—look, Cass, I don't do my famous imitation to show that I admire the dame! No, sir!"

"Why not? I mean, if, as you're suggesting, she is not a person deserving that admiration, why does she do the things she does?"

"Same reason you've been running the Haven," said Marcy's voice from behind the couch. "She wants to be admired. She wants the town to call her a saint, an angel. She's a reputation-fancier."

"Sue calls her an angel," declared Cass.

"Sue can be a blithering fool."

"She's not."

"What about the times Lenoire takes over Matt?"

Cass looked up from the folds of the chair cover. "What do you mean?"

Marcy snorted. "You know what I mean!"

"I understand what you are implying," said Cass coldly. "And if you've heard any stories to make you infer such things, I can promise you that they were pure gossip. Doctors are peculiarly subject to such tales—and whatever tale you've heard about Matt could just as well be fastened to Alex!"

"Yes," agreed Marcy, taking one side of the bulky cover. "It could have been. And still might be. She'll get around, will Lenoire."

"Marcy!"

Marcy stood up, straight and tall before Cass. "Look, girl," she said quietly. "I know the type. In Germany I met a dozen women like Black."

Barefooted, Marcy glided across the carpet and struck a pose. Even in her white shorts and dark blue t-shirt she brought vividly to mind the way Lenoire Black stood, one hand low on her lip, her face turned so that she could gaze at one across her shoulder, her eyes still, grave—receptive.

Cass laughed. "You're a wicked, but talented, girl!"

"I knew how to do that before I ever met Lenoire," said Marcy.

Marcy put both hands on the chair arm, and leaned down toward Cass who sat upon the floor. "I was over there for three months," she said tensely. Her face had gone stone white. "That's a long, long time, Cass!"

* * *

Three months was a long time. Aunt Cordy had been ill for three months, and at the end of that period Cass found herself weary, and nervy.

And, like her or not, trust her or not, Lenoire provided relief. For those two hours every morning, with Lenoire Black in her room, Aunt Cordy was quiet, and happy. And Cass was grateful for the break.

One day at that time, Sue dropped in and detected Cass's seeming freedom. "What's happening to the cocked ear?" she asked.

Cass laughed. "From 10 to 12, I just let it flap."

"How come?"

"I thought you knew that Lenoire Black had been coming in to amuse Aunt Cordy every day except Sunday?"

Sue frowned.

"She's been wonderful, Sue! With her, Aunt Cordy is as gentle as a lamb. I don't know what it is the woman does—maybe she hypnotizes her. Alex explains it by saying that anyone can manage to be patient and pleasant for two hours a day."

Aunt Cordy's bedroom had, originally, been a sun room which opened off the parlors and the music room of the old mansion. One French door had been closed by wall board; the other, since her illness, had been replaced by a solid door. It stood open this morning, and as they came thru the cool and shaded living room, Cass and Sue had a good view of the sick room before Aunt Cordy or Backy knew that they were there.

* * *

Backy stood beside the bed, holding an emesis pan to Aunt Cordy's chin, a cloth ready.

"Has she been sick?" Sue asked.

"A slight vertigo from the medication," Cass told the doctor. "I don't believe she is actually nauseated."

Sue turned to look at her sharply. "Where'd you get that talk?"

Cass smiled. "Oh, Lenoire said that. I asked her if she'd ever been a nurse."

Red color streaked into Sue's cheeks, her eyes were puzzled—and she looked cross.

"Is something wrong, Sue?"

Sue touched Cass's arm reassuringly. "With Aunt Cordy, no. But—well—I don't believe I'd let Miss Black come here so much, Cass."

"But—"

"It's only a feeling," she admitted. "But suddenly in there I realized how much she must know about you folks, and how little you—or any of us—know about her. And just maybe it isn't a good idea to let a stranger come so intimately into one's home. To become so obligated—to her."

General Baptist Ass'n Meeting at Raleigh Monday

A meeting of the Ohio Association of General Baptist churches will be held at Raleigh grade school gymnasium Monday at 7 p. m. The association includes 25 General Baptist churches in Saline, Gallatin, Pope, Hardin and part of Williamson counties.

Speaker at the meeting will be the Rev. Ollie Latch, Poplar Bluff, Mo., editor of the General Baptist Messenger, a church paper.

Representatives and groups from all churches in the association are expected to attend the meeting at which time plans will be furthered for a summer camp on General Baptist-owned ground at Rudement. Eventual plans call for permanent camp buildings including a tabernacle, kitchen and dining room facilities and dormitories.

First use of the camp is expected this summer and eventual plans will call for camping periods during the summer for groups of 200 at a time. The camp will be made available for other responsible church groups when not in use by General Baptist groups.

The Rev. George Dougherty, pastor of the Stonefort General Baptist church, is secretary-treasurer of the camp ground movement, and the president of the General Baptist youth movement. Eugene Willis, of Kentucky, will be present at the meeting at Raleigh Monday evening.

Crops totaling more than 1,000 bushels per acre have been harvested in some of Michigan's upper peninsula fields, setting production records for non-irrigated potato acreages.

MILK OF HUMAN KINDNESS—Eager-eyed, thirsty Arab refugee children cluster around a lucky little girl as she drinks from a can of fresh milk at a CARE distribution center in the Gaza area of Egypt. More than 30,000 refugee youngsters are provided with CARE milk in this area, still held by Israeli forces.

This Bus Driver Has Real Incentive

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Stuart Holzman is driving a bus toward a $4,500,000 payoff.

While the 28-year-old millionaire-to-be enjoys the daily round trips between Paterson and the Port Authority Bus Terminal in New York City, he has an additional incentive to the $125 a week he receives as a driver.

Under the terms of his uncle's will, Holzman, in order to come into an estate valued at $4,500,000, must remain on one job from his 25th to his 35th birthday. In the meantime he receives an allowance from the estate which boosts his temporary income to about $9,200 a month.

"Boy, how I wish I was the teacher and you were a little kid!"

Winter Wizardry With Gas Assures Adequate Supply Of Fuel for Consumers

A storm comes blustering out of the north, clutching a city in a frosty grip. As thermometers plunge, thousands of gas flames spring to life beneath boilers, in heaters and furnaces, to keep the city warm.

Secure indoors, people watch the storm's fury through their windows and chat unworriedly about the weather. Mostly, they take for granted the flow of fuel which is magically there when needed, to set the gas burners alight.

But it is no accident that gas in dependable supply is there to handle the cold-weather "peak load."

Everyone knows the experience of standing in a warm shower, only to be doused suddenly with cold water, or see the spray fall to a trickle as other users open their taps. Much the same thing could happen to the gas supply—if it were not for foresighted planning by utility companies. Long-and-short-range weather prediction, creation of adequate storage and auxiliary facilities, coordination of supply sources, regulation of flow, all enter into maintaining the constant blue flame at everyone's burner-tip.

Skilled Crystal Gazers

To assure supply for the coldest day, and the coldest winter, gas utility executives must be skilled crystal-gazers. They must be able to prophesy community and population growth. They must forecast the number and kind of appliances which will be in use far in the future. Perhaps most important, they must be weather wizards who can predict temperature changes anywhere from hours to years before they happen.

To read future gas needs in the skies, utilities may rely upon U. S. Weather Bureau reports, upon specialized weather consultants, or upon trained meteorologists whom they hire as part of their regular staffs. Many modern companies even give courses in meteorology to the dispatchers responsible for hour-to-hour gas flow to users.

Though accompanying weather effects, such as rain or snow, humidity, and wind conditions, influence gas needs to some extent, by far the most important factor is temperature.

Gas companies must know not only how cold it may get, but how long cold spells may last. By measuring what might loosely be called "quantities of cold" to be overcome, they can tell how much fuel will be needed.

Degree-Day Measurement

The measuring tool which has been adopted by the gas industry—and increasingly by other weather forecasters as well—is known as the "degree-day."

A "degree-day" might be defined as one degree of "cold"—that is, one degree for which heat must be supplied—lasting for a period of one 24-hour day. Since gas heat ordinarily is turned on when the outside temperature falls below 65 degrees, the number of degree-days is the number of degrees below 65 which the temperature averages for a given day. If the average temperature on a January day in Chicago is 20 degrees, for example, the Chicago gas company must supply fuel for 45 degree-days.

The fact that each added degree-day, in any particular community, requires approximately the same additional quantity of fuel for heat makes it fairly simple for a utility to estimate, from its past experience in its own community, the total quantity of gas needed.

So handy is this "degree day" concept for measuring cold weather that we may expect people soon to adopt it as part of their everyday vocabulary. If you hear someone say, "Yesterday we had 70 degree-days," you'll know it was mighty cold: an average of 5 below zero!

Long Range Predictions

For local gas company dispatchers, it is of course important to anticipate not only daily but hourly fluctuations in both temperature and gas use, in order to maintain proper volume and pressure in the mains at all times. These employees must have enough weather wizardry to translate frequently complex weather reports into pounds and cubic feet of gas.

Long-range predictions — based on such diverse factors as historical records, climatic changes and even sun-spot activity—help gas companies to anticipate total demands. For example, a company in New Orleans, where a typical winter has 1,134 degree-days, must solve quite different problems from a company in Devil's Lake, North Dakota, where 10,102 degree-days is normal. San Francisco, where summers are cool but where winters rarely get much below freezing temperature, also faces a quite different situation from New York, which needs air-conditioning in summer—but where a temperature of 13 below zero was recorded, on a day when New York harbor froze over!

Knowing the probable and possible peak loads they may encounter, and then allowing an extra margin for safety, gas utilities make numerous provisions to assure supply.

Regulate Pressure

First, a gas company, especially one near the gas-field source, may arrange for plentiful pipeline capacity. As colder weather approaches, word is flashed down the pipeline, as far as the wells. Output is stepped up, and pressure may be increased in the mains. Pressure regulating stations automatically adjust to keep the proper volume flowing to the customers' burners.

Other companies make use of underground or holder storage, building up reserves through pipeline withdrawals during warm months. When winter peak loads come, stored gas is poured into the local system, supplementing pipline supply.

Still other companies may also use stand-by gas manufacturing facilities, feeding gas made from oil, coal or liquefied petroleum gas into local lines together with pipeline natural gas. Taking some of the load off the pipelines in this way is known as "peak load shaving."

These and other gas company measures are insurance that in your gas-heated home you will be able to weather the most frigid winter in comfort. If your gas bill is higher in December and January, remember that these months have 31 days—and a lot of "degree-days" as well'

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Dick Lehr

Received a letter from Dick Lehr Wednesday afternoon stating he had resigned as head basketball coach at Bridgeport Township high school, effective June 1.

Lehr went to Bridgeport at the beginning of the 1952-53 school term following a four-year tenure as head coach at Carrier Mills high school.

He has kept in close touch with the basketball situation in this area while at Bridgeport and was among the many in attendance at the final session of the Saline County tournament last Saturday.

His letter says in part — "My reasons for resigning were purely personal and I hope to remain in high school coaching somewhere in Southern Illinois next year."

* * *

The Carbondale Attucks basketball team that will oppose Carrier Mills' Wildcats Friday night has one of the finest records in southern Illinois, owning 18 victories in 19 starts. The only loss was a one-pointer, 51-50, to Mounds Douglass in the Anna tournament Jan. 17.

The team is paced by 6-6 George Foree, center. Saturday night while Attucks was racking up victory number 18 at the expense of Sumner of Cairo, Foree scored 29 points, making 14 field goals in 18 tries.

Included in the Attucks victory string is a win over Mt. Vernon early in the season. The 49-44 victory was spear-headed by Foree's 13 points.

There's snow on the ground today in Harrisburg but it's spring in some parts of the nation.

A news release from Tulane University reveals that spring football practice is scheduled to start Monday, Feb. 4. The spring practice will consist of 20 sessions over a maximum period of 36 days.

Bull Dogs Meet West Frankfort At Davenport Gym Friday Night

Formidable opposition continues for Harrisburg this week as the Bull Dogs meet West Frankfort, second in the South Seven basketball conference, at Davenport gym Friday night.

West Frankfort, which has most of its boys back from the team that went to the state finals at Champaign last year, beat Harrisburg, 72 to 53, at Frankfort Dec. 21, but had only a nine-point lead at the end of the third period. The Franklin county boys put on a rally that outscored the locals 26-16 the last frame.

Two other conference games are Centralia at Herrin and Benton at Marion. Other Friday night tilts are Attucks at Carrier Mills, Norris City at Eldorado, Rosiclare at Ridgway, Pope County at Equality, Shawneetown at Cave-in-Rock, McLeansboro at Zeigler and Shawnee at Vienna.

Harrisburg will be idle Saturday night and there will be no South Seven games on tap although five of the loop schools will be in action. Top game probably will be at Herrin, where Carbondale, which has won 15 and lost three and which beat Mt. Vernon last week for the second time this year, meets the Tigers, leaders in the South Seven with 7-0 and with a 15-1 overall record.

Marion will be host to Christopher, West Frankfort to Murphysboro and Mt. Vernon to Springfield Lanphier in other games involving loop schools.

Two Saline county teams—Galatia and Eldorado—will be pitted against each other at Eldorado and the other, Carrier Mills, will go to Cave-in-Rock.

Swimming Star John Marshall Dies of Injuries

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — John Marshall, the swimming star who was an Olympic competitor for Australia and set world records for Yale, was mourned today by athletes the world over.

Marshall, 26, died Wednesday without ever emerging from the coma he entered when he suffered head injuries in an auto accident last Thursday. Doctors operated on him four times in a vain effort to save his life.

Marshall's death came just two months after he had represented Australia in the Olympic Games for the third time. Although he won medals in the 1948 games in London and the 1952 games in Helsinki, Finland, this time he was attempting a comeback from shoulder bursitis that had forced him to quit two years ago and the best he could do was a fifth place in the 200-meter butterfly.

Marshall's best competitive years were at Yale, because from 1950 through 1954 he smashed world freestyle records a grand total of 28 times. In 1950 alone, he surpassed world record figures more than a dozen times and during his career set marks at distances from 200 meters to one mile.

Rosen Retires From Baseball

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians third baseman Al Rosen, 31, acclaimed the American League's most valuable player by unanimous vote in 1953, today announced his retirement from baseball to enter business.

Rosen was made the butt of boos and criticism by Tribe fans and General Manager Hank Greenberg last fall after slumping badly. Greenberg declared that he thought Rosen was "all washed up" as a Cleveland player.

Rosen said nothing can change his mind about quitting baseball and devoting his time to his stock brokerage job and to his family.

Dorrisville, Galatia Play Tonight for Midget Championship

Dorrisville and host Galatia will play for the championshp of the Midget conference basketball tournament this evening.

They won their way into the title game Wednesday night, Galatia beating Raleigh 49-29 and Dorrisville taking a 46-26 decision from Broughton.

In regular season play Galatia and Dorrisville each won a game in the home-and-home series and closed the season with identical conference records of 9 victories and one loss.

Tonight's action will get underway at 6:30 with Raleigh and Broughton playing for third place. Then comes the championship contest.

Berra Leaves Garagiola with Only the Glove

PITTSBURGH — (NEA) — Joe Garagiola always will be able to get by as an after-dinner speaker as long as Yogi Berra still is active in baseball.

Joe, the ex-catcher who is now a radio broadcaster, grew up with the Yankee backstop in St. Louis and his latest banquet trail story hinges on this.

"Yogi and I started out together," Joe says. "We lived on the same block, played on the same team, shared the same glove. Nothing much has changed since. Yogi now makes $58,000 a year, drives a Cadillac and owns bowling alleys and I have the glove."

West Frankfort Loses Forwards, Florian and Avery

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP) — The West Frankfort basketball team, 9th-ranked in the state, will have to get along without its two starting forwards for an indefinite time.

Francis Florian, top scorer and rebounder, is recovering from an emergency appendicitis operation. Ron Avery, a star defensive man, received a collar bone injury in the Pyramid tournament last week.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Despite the constant warnings issued to them, some drivers cannot be impressed with the dangers they face when driving while intoxicated. It apparently does not concern them when they are informed of the needless risks they are taking under such circumstances not only with their own lives but with the lives of others.

A survey shows that drivers in 13 per cent of fatal accidents over a one year period were charged with driving while intoxicated. The percentage is probably higher, because few statistics are available on dead persons being charged with drunk driving.

The number of fatal accidents involving only one driver who strikes a fixed object as a result of driving while intoxicated cannot be determined. However, it is believed that many such accidents result from driving after drinking. A survey shows that more than half of the non-pedestrian accidents result from collisions with telephone poles, bridge abutments or elevated pillars.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

ENGAGED—Herb Score, youthful pitching ace of the Cleveland Indians, and Nancy Ann McNamara announced their engagement in Cleveland, O. Miss McNamara, who is 20 and a senior at St. Mary's college in Notre Dame, Ind., was a high school classmate of the Tribe pitcher. The 23-year-old Score is recognized as one of the outstanding pitchers in baseball. A fall wedding is planned. (NEA Telephoto)

SIU Experts Study Acid Control Of Strip Mine Ponds in Area

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Under proper control, hundreds of acid-content strip mine ponds in southern Illinois might produce highly desirable fishing locations, according to Southern Illinois University fisheries experts.

The news was contained in a report by members of the SIU Cooperative Wildlife and Fisheries Laboratories to representatives of agencies cooperating in a three-year-old strip-land wildlife research project near Pinckneyville. The study, being carried out by SIU staff members and students on land donated by the Traux-Traer Coal company, is designed to produce ways of managing and developing coal-stripped areas for better hunting, fishing and recreation.

Meeting on the SIU campus, representatives expressed surprise at progress already made on the deeply scarred 940 acres. Gravel roads now cut through the once-inaccessible area, many of the steep spoil banks have been leveled, and a program of food and habitat planting has resulted in increased bags of game for hunters.

Liming Operations

Vernon Cole, fisheries researcher, said strip-pond acid might be a blessing rather than a curse. Utilization of some pond's acidity to control fish population growth (a big management headache) might result from studies completed so far. One pond, with a pH (acidity factor) reading of 3.5, contained an all-adult fish population. Anything under 5.1 was previously regarded as deadly.

Researchers have begun a program of treating acid lakes with hydrated lime and fertilizer combinations and will test growth patterns and population adjustments. One 20-acre pond, which has received only 11 tons of lime, has increased from a pH reading of 3.9 to 5.1, Cole said, while parts-per-million acidity has dropped from 75 to 29. The lake should be ready to stock with young fish in May, and future stocking combinations will determine what kind of fish populations are best for strip mine ponds.

Cole indicated that the comparatively inexpensive liming operation wouldn't have to be repeated for another three or four years after the desirable pH level had been acquired. The major object of liming and fertilizing is to encourage algael bloom, chief habitat attraction for fish.

Game Increases

Howard Stains, researcher in the SIU Wildlife Research Laboratory, said game in the area is grazing so heavily on food plantings that "the big problem now is putting in enough food to last all winter." Heavy corn growths in a 40-acre control area were quickly depleted by raccoons and groundhogs. Millet plantings were nibbled bare by rabbits, and groundhogs ate soybeans before they sprouted.

Stains said hunters reported steadily increasing kills of rabbits, quail and furbearers in the area, all of which is open to hunters.

Lou Weber, forester for the Illinois Coal Strippers association, one of the cooperators, said "in our increasing effort to develop other mined-over lands, we will be looking toward SIU for more results on this project. The success to date more than justifies our cooperation." Weber then gave a tractor to Dr. Willard Klimstra, SIU director of Cooperative Wildlife Research and chairman of the advisory committee on strip-mine investigations. The tractor will be used in spoil-bank leveling.

Other agencies cooperating in the study are the Illinois Department of Conservation, Illinois Natural History Survey, Wildlife Management Institute, U. S. Forest Service, and National Sport Fishing Institute.

A survey made in the North Central states indicates farm home-makers canned or froze an average of 751 pounds of food in 1951, the North Dakota Agricultural College reported.

Giant sequoias, earth's largest living things, sprout from seeds so small that one ounce, in theory, could produce 6,700 trees, the National Geographic Society says.

NIT Shopping For Teams to Combat NCAA

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Invitation Tournament, once the nation's premier post-season basketball event, was shopping around today for "sleeper" teams to combat fierce competition from the NCAA championship.

West Virginia Tech's 100-point-per-game sharpshooters (16-1), Texas Southern's Negro NAIA champions (19-1), unbeaten St. Peter's of New Jersey (12-0), Memphis State (15-3) and little Brandeis (13-2) were among the teams unofficially mentioned to jazz up the field for the 20th annual NIT.

The bulk of the 12-team field again will be the strong Eastern independents, including the three top metropolitan schools, Manhattan (9-4), St. John's (8-4) and Seton Hall (10-6).

Canisius (14-2), Syracuse (10-3), St. Joseph's of Philadelphia (11-3), Duquesne (10-5), Temple (9-5) and Lafayette (13-3) are other strong Eastern teams which the NIT will try to lure away from the NCAA tournament.

For intersectional appeal, NIT officials are anxious to corral Seattle with its 18-2 record. Two berths probably will be left open for the runnersup in the Skyline and Missouri Valley Conferences. That would give the field Brigham Young or Utah from the Rocky Mountains and Bradley, Wichita or St. Louis from the Midlands, Dayton, four times a runnerup in this tournament, also may be invited back despite its mediocre 9-7 record.

Three Big Ten Stars Top Record In Goal Percentage

CHICAGO (AP) — Three of the Big Ten's top scorers have a field goal accuracy percentage higher than the conference record and two of the teams also are hitting more accurately than the league mark, official statistics showed today.

Frank Howard, Ohio State, second in scoring, has a field goal accuracy mark of .544, George Kline, Minnesota, has hit .545, and Illinois' Hiles Stout .563, compared to the record of .504 set by Don Schlundt of Indiana.

The team field goal accuracy mark of .413 by Iowa in 1955 has been bettered so far by Ohio State, the league leader, with .459 and by Illinois, in a tie for third place, with .424.

Archie Dees, Indiana, continued to lead the individual scorers with an average of 24.2 points per game, with Illinois the leader in team offense with 90 points a game. Ohio State was the top defensive club, holding its opponents to 66 points a game.

Yankee Officials to Begin 'Heavy Negotiations' with Mickey Mantle

By United Press

Mickey Mantle and Yankee General Manager George Weiss, having dispensed with the preliminaries, settle down to brass tacks today and if the site of their salary talk is a factor, the young slugger is a $60,000 cinch to get what he's asking.

Weiss and Yankee co-owner Del Webb will be among those present when Mantle is honored as "Man of the Year" by Sport Magazine today. Weiss has indicated he will begin "heavy negotiations."

Each speaker at the ceremony will get up and praise Mickey to the sky. Then it will be Weiss' turn to speak about Mantle's baseball virtues. What can he possibly say?—"the bum can't hit a curve ball."

Mantle stacks up as the Yankees' biggest financial headache but two more of their players who aren't fixing to budge until they're offered more money are Don (Perfect Game) Larsen and Bob Grim.

Yanks Sign Two

Latest Yankee players to sign were shortstop Gil McDougald and first baseman Joe Collins, each of whom agreed to terms Wednesday after receiving raises.

The Yankees, however, aren't the only club with salary problems.

Southpaw Warren Spahn and outfielder Hank Aaron both are asking for more money from the Milwaukee Braves. Spahn, a 20-game winner last year, left Milwaukee for his home in Hartshorne, Okla., Wednesday after explaining he got "nowhere" in his salary discussions.

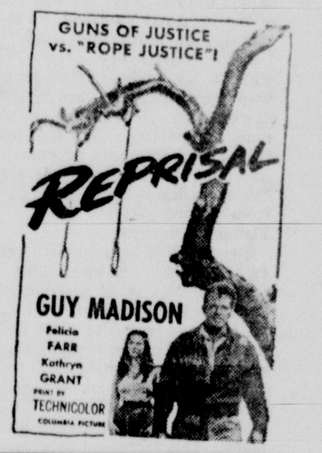

The Detroit Tigers admit they "haven't heard a word" from southpaw Billy Hoeft, another 20-game winner, and Cleveland General Manager Hank Greenberg failed in his effort to sign Early Wynn, still another member of the 20-victory circle.

Slugging Roy Sievers, last man to sign with the Washington Senators a year ago, appears in no hurry to sign this year, either, and southpaw Johnny Antonelli feels he deserves more from the Giants.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS:

Old Shawneetown Has Its Story

JOHN W. ALLEN
Southern Illinois University

Old Shawneetown in Gallatin county and the city of Washington began in somewhat the same manner. Each was laid out by government engineers and each was never a part of the public domain opened for settlement. It is said that they are the only two towns in the United States enjoying these singular distinctions.

Since their establishment, however, their courses have diverged. Washington has become one of the world's most significant cities. On the other hand, Shawneetown has passed from a busy river port, trading center and one-time area metropolis to a quaint old town beside the roadway. Though much of the town has vanished, its story remains an interesting one.

A few months ago Illinois Highway 13 was extended to connect with the Ohio River bridge at the downstream side of the village, thus by-passing the old town. Hence it is no longer necessary to pass through it to cross the river. Those visiting there now do so from choice.

Visitors Attracted

Steeped as it is in history, legend and tradition, the crumbling remains of this early metropolis of Southern Illinois still attracts many visitors who come to view its remaining historic buildings and sites and to hear its stories.

The new bridge and the resulting diversion of cross-river traffic has added to the detachment of the place. This increased detachment, in turn, makes it easier for the visitor to let his imagination wander backward.

The most casual visitor, knowing little or none of the town's history, soon comes to feel something of its spell. The quaint and often impressive old buildings, their apparent age, the gaps along the street where remains of old foundations or piles of rubble show that other structures once stood, and the generally unhurried air of those one sees moving about all combine to impress the outsider who goes to Shawneetown.

Though many of its historic landmarks are long vanished, enough remain to suggest interesting stories.

Bank Was Impressive

The most impressive of these is the State Bank Building at the city ending of Highway 13. Built in 1837-38 at a cost of $80,000, it was an imposing structure for that time and this area. With its wide stone steps and massive columns, said by many to be the finest of their kind in America, the building still is impressive.

Except for a brief period during the Civil War, when there was fear that raiders from south of the river might seize its assets, a bank was operated here until the 1920s. Now it stands deserted with a bulging side that indicates approaching collapse and the vanishing of another Illinois landmark

Across the street as the visitor approaches the levee is the site of the once noted Riverside Hotel, where many travellers took lodging. Among these was Mark Twain, who there became acquainted with a lively boy named Thomas Sawyer Spivey. This boy's first names furnished the title for Twain's masterpiece, "Tom Sawyer." Some of the escapades that young Spivey related to the author became parts of his book that has charmed millions.

Marshall Residence

A hundred yards or so along the levee from the site of the Riverside Hotel is another historic building. This brick house, the first such structure in Shawneetown, was built as the residence of John Marshall, merchant, trader, financier, politician, and community leader. In 1816 Marshall, who had for some time been performing bank services, joined with others and obtained a charter from the Illinois Territorial legislature and set up a bank in a lower room of his residence. Their "vault" that now rests in the museum of the Chicago Historical Society was a heavy wooden chest thickly studded with iron spikes. It was to this bank that legend says a group of men came in 1830 on an unsuccessful mission to borrow $10,000 to be used in the development of Chicago, only to be told that Chicago was too far from Shawneetown to ever amount to much.

It was also at this Marshall residence that a group of women met to form the first Presbyterian church in the town. A small bronze marker beside the upper doorway marks the building.

Other places of interest are the Rowan, Richerson-Caroll, Peeples, Docker, and Lowe homes, the Lafayette and Lincoln wells, the Carroll Store, the Methodist church built in 1842, and the altar in the nearby Catholic church. And the almost deserted river front will conjure up many a memory to those versed in river lore.

The names of numerous individuals of far more than local prominence are also associated with the old town, including Lincoln, Lafayette, Logan, Ingersoll, Marshall, Eddy, Kimmel, Hall, McClernand, McLean and others.

From the time when it was only the site of a Shawnee Indian village until now, the story of the crumbling old town is an interesting one. A leisurely visit to the place offers its rewards.

To Teach Book of Romans at First Baptist Church

Dr. W. W. Adams, professor of New Testament Interpretation, Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., will be teaching the book of "Romans" at the First Baptist church, Harrisburg, Friday and Saturday from 7 to 9 p. m., and Sunday morning and evening. With Dr. Adams comes the reputation of being one of America's greatest New Testament scholars.

Dr. W. W. Adams

From 1946-1954 he was president and professor of New Testament Interpretation, Central Baptist Seminary, Kansas City, Kansas. Dr. Adams is an associate of the Christian Review magazine and has authored three books, "Forward With Christ," "The Life of Christ in Outline," and "The Scriptures Say."

Dr. Adams specializes in Bible conferences such as he will be directing here.

The Rev. Joe Morman, pastor of the church, says, "We feel fortunate indeed to have the opportunity of studying what some consider the greatest book in the Bible, by one that many consider its best interpreter.

The members are especially urged to attend and to bring friends who are interested in the study of the word of God.

Navy to Recruit Eight from Area During February

The St. Louis Navy Recruiting District has been assigned a quota of 213 men to be enlisted during the month of February, it was announced today by Lieutenant Commander L. R. Wright, USN, officer in charge. Lt. Cdr. Wright further stated that 75 of this quota would be transferred to San Diego, Calif. for their nine weeks recruit training. The 75 men which will go to California will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Lt. Cdr. Wright has assigned a quota of eight to the Marion, Ill. area, which is based on the percentage of population in this area.

In the recruiting competition, three new Navy sedans will be awarded for the best recruiting results obtained during the month of February. The award of these sedans, which are for official business only, will be made solely on the basis of percentage of assigned quota enlisted during the month and will include only men who will be enlisted in the Navy for the first time.

The substations of Marion, Effingham and Quincy, Ill., Paducah, Ky. and their 10 branch stations will compete for one sedan.

The award of the second sedan will be competed for by the substations in Moberly, Rolla, Cape Girardeau, Springfield, Poplar Bluff, Mo. and their 10 branch stations.

The nine recruiting stations of the Greater St. Louis area will compete for the third sedan.

Carmi Petitions Ask City Manager Election

CARMI, Ill. (AP) — A city manager election is in prospect here.

County Judge Max Endicott has called a public hearing on the issue for Feb. 9 after petitions asking for an election were presented.

The proposition would be submitted to voters at the April 16 city election.

Egyptian Health Dep't News

DENTAL EXAM PROGRAM IS UNDER WAY BY DR. CHAS. W. ELDER

The dental examination program for school children, which is being carried on by the Egyptian Health Department, is now in full progress. This program, under the direction of Dr. Charles W. Elder, public health dentist, is to give all school children in Saline, White and Gallatin counties an opportunity of having their teeth examined.

According to Dr. Elder, 1,606 children have been examined since the first of January of this year. Thus far, examinations have been carried on in the following ten schools: Stonefort grade, Carrier Mills grade, New Shawneetown grade, Ringgold, Saline Mines, Washington school in Carmi, Lakeview, Holmes, Old Shawneetown grade, and Junction.

Dr. Elder stated that out of the 1,606 children already examined, he found 5,249 cavities in the permanent or adult teeth of these children. However, this does not include the cavities found in baby teeth. Each child who is examined is given a card to take home to his parents which briefly tells of the condition of the teeth and gums and if any dental work needs to be done. During these examinations the children are told the correct way to brush their teeth and care of their gums.

Dr. Elder said that when talking to these children, he constantly emphasizes points necessary for good teeth and healthy gums.

Some of these are: Visit your dentist twice a year, eat plenty of wholesome food, avoid too many sweets, drink plenty of wholesome milk and brush your teeth at least two times each day.

Dr. Elder said, "much more emphasis should be placed on dental health since dental caries (decayed teeth) is the most prevalent disease in man today." This is a disease that very few people escape. However, through the right kind of dental health, much of this could be avoided. If decay has started, early treatment by a dentist is very important to prevent further tooth damage.

It is hoped that these examinations will help children and parents to be more conscious of good dental health.

"We should all realize that our teeth are very essential to us and play an important part in good health and physical wellbeing," Dr. Elder says.

Dr. Elder and his dental assistant began a new dental survey in the Norris City grade school Jan. 28. The findings from this survey and other school surveys will be publisher later.

Virtual Closing of RKO Studio Seen As First of Series of Cut-Downs

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer.

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — They used to joke around town that TV would turn movie studios into bowling alleys, and the virtual shut-down of RKO Studio is the first step to sad reality.

Thanks to the revolution in show business, the gates through which passed such stars as Ginger Rogers, Cary Grant, Fred Astaire and Jane Russell are closed.

RKO executives announced its backlog of pictures will be taken over by Universal-International for release. RKO will continue to produce a few pictures, the announcement said, and financial sources said it is necessary to continue some operation for three years so the owner, tire magnate Tom O'Neil, can collect a 10-million-dollar tax loss.

The big beige stucco studio in the heart of old Hollywood apparently has seen its last days of movie-making. Four movies are in the preparation stage, "Galveston," "The Naked and the Dead," "Rachel Kaid" and "Ten Days of August." Whether they'll all go before the cameras is not known, and all are slated for out-of-town location shooting.

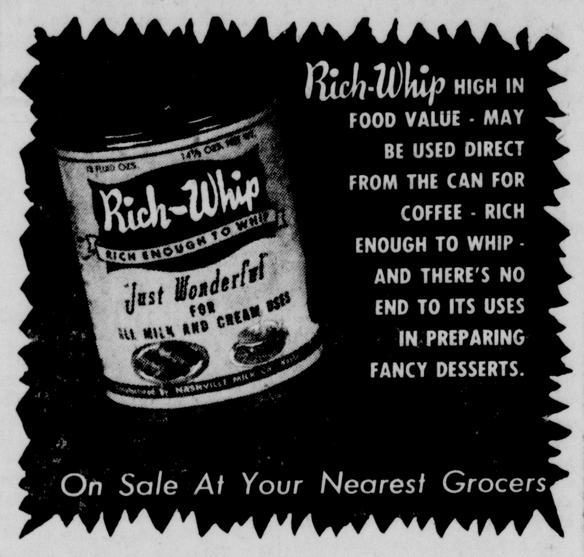

The publicity, prop, set and wardrobe departments are closed. The company's 32 film exchanges throughout the country folded, with some 800 employees pink-slipped. The sound stages are empty—stages where Astaire and Rogers danced for "Flying Down to Rio", where Cary Grant, Claudette Colbert, Robert Mitchum, Ava Gardner and others worked.

Why did RKO fall into trouble? Trade sources point out the big business in theaters today is done by supercolossal blockbusters such a "Giant", dramas with big names like "I'll Cry Tomorrow" or "The Rainmaker," controversial stories such as "Baby Doll" or the program pictures such as the Ma and Pa Kettle series and science fiction potboilers.

RKO tried to keep in the tough fight with expensive movies that had neither big stars nor important stories.

Movie industry circles believe the RKO difficulty is the first of a series of cut-downs.
